1. The Czechoslovak Government is showing concern over the efforts of the Yugoslav and Rumanian Governments to conclude collaboration and mutual assistance pacts with Hungary.
2. The Czechoslovak protest is being interpreted as indicative of a certain governmental independence, since the USSR appears to be giving its support to the pacts.
3. Czechoslovak uneasiness is probably due to the unsolved Hungarian minority problem in southern Slovakia and to a desire to prevent Hungary's inclusion in a system of pacts which would permit that country's participation on equal terms inside a coalition similar to the former Little Entente.
